Bombardment Is Smothered By Artillery

GENERAL HEADQUARTERS OF THE BRITISH ARMY IN FANCE, June 16.—(Via London, June 17, 7:35 p. m.)—The heavy distant bombard ment by the French in the region of the "Labyrinth," which has continued like the ceaseless roll of thunder for several days, was drowned to the ear early this morning by the nearer roll of heavy artillery—preparations for an attack accompaning the offensive an attack accompaning the offensive of the ailies at two points on the British front, where for several days we had only a sniping exchange of rifle and machine gun shots between trenches and of shells between bat-teries, and a bill in the siege war-fore.

At the transfer station for ammunition, the most significant point in the rear when an action is under-way, all hands were busy through the way, all hands were busy through the night. Motor trucks were running from the rail-head, feeding the guns as they concentrated on the German trenches, tearing them apart with high explosive shells and bathing them with shrapnel before the infan-

ONE reason people prefer Tulsa is that so few doctors are able to make a living here.

Seven years ago fifty-three had offices in Tulsa population 12,000; today only twenty-six more are here, yet Tulsais three times as large as it was then. This city's death rate is lower than any other of its class in the entire middlewest. Where doctors starve for lack of patients, the rest of us should live to ripe old age.

Along money-making lines, however, the figures, by comparison, tell another story of Tulsa's chief industry.

In 1908, when Glenn pool had the world beaten, 126 oil and gas operators made headquarters in Tulsa. Today four times that number, or, to be exact, 497 producing oil companies have offices in Tulsa. Seven years ago most members of the oil fraternity lived at hotels; now the majority have their families in Tulsa. Hundreds have built homes of their

LONDON, June 17.—(8:42 p. m.)—Scotland Yard tonight issued further detailed instructions to the public on how to act in case of a Zeppelin raid. The suggestion is given that house-holders store water and sand, with which they may combat fires, close their windows and doors to check the invasion of noxious mass and provide themnoxious gases and provide them-selves with home-made respir-ators. As to the most satisfac-tory respirator the statement says:

"To this question there really is no satisfactory answer for until the poison used is known no anti-dote can be indicated."

It is suggested that cotton waste gaturated with washing soda makes a good respirator.
